The Constitution Violated.

The constitution Violated.

"The corporations and wealthy individuals, who are engaged in large manufacturing establishments, desire a high tarift to increase their gains. Designing politicians will support it to conciliate their favor, and to obtain the means of profuse expenditure for the purpose of purchasing influence in other quarters.

" In not allow yourselves, my fellow-citizens, to be misled on the subject. The Federal government cast not collect a surplus for such purposes, without violating the principles of the constitution, and assuming powers which have not been granted. It is moreover a system of injustice, and, if persisted in, will inevitably lead to corruption, and must end in ruin."—Andrew Jackson.

ELDOBADO, ORLA., Sept. 28, '92.

EDITOR HERLAID—I have been a reader of your paper for some time and am always glad to see it come tom ynew home in Texas, and when I read it, how close it draws all of my old Kentucky friends to me. I will tell you what I think a hout Greer county. Texas. I think it does extra well for a newly settled country. This beats any country I ever saw for people to turn out to church or gatherings of any kind. People here, or a majority of them, are first class, made up from nearly every State in the Union. I have been living here seven months and have not seeu one drunken man or heard an oath sworn. I live on the main road from Quenah to Mangum and am hardly ever out of sight of wagfors. I live about one hundred yards from a church and school house. People here are very kind and sociale. We raised. from a wagon yard and blacksmith shop, and about two hundred yards from a church and school house. People here are very kind and sociable. We raised wheat, oats, millet, sorghum, sweet potatoes, peanuts, and all the watermelons we could use. In the way of a garden it was almost a failure. Everything came up very niee and looked well until the drought killed it. People here plant vary early and deep in the soil. I would not advise old people who have good homes to break up and go to a new country, but I think it will suit young men, as they can get get both homes and a wife. This is a good Inducement. Come, boys, to the Lone Star State, we have as good soil as there is anywhere, and I hope and trust the Lord we will have plenty for fain. This is a beautiful country. A few Sundays ago we all took a ride in the wagon. We went out where we could see several mountains 30 or 40 miles over in the Lodde Tearlier. took a ride in the wagon. We went out where we could see several mountains 30 or 40 miles over in the Indian Territory. or 40 miles over in the Indian Territory. I have not seen any Indians here yet. It is so nice to ride out over the country and see so much nice land broke up for wheat, and it is as loose as it can be. I think I am safe in saying that all of the Kentucky folks are well enough satisfied to give Greer a fair trial, but some have had long faces. S. P. Napier gave up all hope of riches and has made his way back to old Kentucky. Bro. Hogg is not dead as runnered, but is well and trips to need the great the greater in its notify. trying to preach the gospel in its purity.
I will close for this time, wishing THE HERALD and its readers much success.
Yours, Mrs. LAURA ELKINS.

The Tin-Plate Tarift.

Republican tariff writers are either very ignorant themselves, or presume on the ignorance of their readers. Lately all the Republican papers have published a piece of news about tin plate, which is so palpable a falsehood, and one so easily proved, that it is surprising they should have the courage to publish it. We refer to the report that the tin plate industry in Wales is almost ruined because the tariff has stopped importation into America, and fostered the manufacture of tin plate in this country. This is so far from being true that during the first eight months of this year more Republican tariff writers are eithe the first eight months of this year more tin plate was imported into this country than, with one exception, in the same time in any previous year, and of course, on this the American farmers and laborers had to pay the extra price the tariff imposed on them.—Midway Clipper.

As both writing and speaking are the expression of thought through language the capacity of the one, joined to an incapacity for the other, is naturally the occasion of remark, and has, I believe, never been accounted for. A DARING ADVENTURER.

Capt. William A. Andrews, already famous for his daring adventures in small bonts on the stormy Atlantic, has again set sail on a novel and interest-

He crossed the occan twice before, first, in the "Xantline," when he was accompanied by his brother, who has since died, and again in the "Mermalt." both edded, and again in the "Mermalt." both edded, and again at the "Here trips being made to Land's End, England. A few years ago he again at tempted the passage in a boat called the "Dark Secret," but, after battling the "Dark Secret," but, after battling with contrary winds, high seas and terrifies storms, he reluctantly consented to give up his efforts after a struggle of sixty-two days, and returned to America on a bark which kindly consented to take him and his sea beaten beat back to knew York.

The captain is a very interesting character. He is a man of fixed purposes, very hard to turn from the object which he has in view. He has made the subject of small boat sailing such a study that he is prepared to meet every argue that he is prepared to meet every argue that he is prepared to meet in a nutshell when it said. The fact that Capt. Andrews can cross the ocean in a cockle shell merely proves that small boats are safe when a Capt. Andrews sails them. Amateurs should remember this when the wind begins to sing.

The captain himself says that "half the people who are drowned less their lives because they do not realize that a boat cannot sink. An fron vessel might, or a ship loaded with a heavy cargo, wooden vessel may capt. In the captain himself and the contract of th

In order to fold it there must be three long canvas hinges from stem to stern, and the daring Captain writes by an incoming ship (when he is hundreds of miles from shore) that he finds the "Sapolio' in a sea-way is a serubber but very leaky." No better proof of his coolness and pinck could be given. The start was made at 440 Wednesser, which was not better than the starting point of Columbus. THE Mt. Sterling Gazette now comes to us as a bright 7-column semi-weekly, and we wish it great success. The daily issued by the Sentinel-Democrat during the Montgomer Harris was a daisy and a success. The Journal is always replete with refreshing news. Mt. Sterling is so full of good newspapers that the citizens can scarely tell which is the best.

PERHAPS because blood lines are closer than political ones the editor of the Clay City Chronicle sees through a glass that is darkly smoked by sympathy when he accuses us of making a personal attack upon Judge H. C. Lilly. A fellow feeling makes us wondrous kind. "Birds of a feather flook together," and the Lillys of the field are nearly always found in close communion.

FROM GOV. Brown's message to the General Assembly, Dec. 30, 1891, we find that the witness fees allowed in some of Judge Lilly's courts last year were excessize in the extreme. For instance, in Ferry the sum thus expended was $1,-$1,-$1, last July and committed, $49.20; in Knott, $1,580; and in Clay, $1,995. In bloody Rowan only $16 was expended for this purpose, and in Wayne it was but $12.80. It will be seen that all five are mountain counties, but the two latter are unfortunately not in the told Judge's district. Who is responsible for this state of affairs? Evidently Judge Lilly has outlived his days of usefulness, and the Democratic party will see that after November 8th next he retires to private life "full of hones and old age."

THE editor of the Clay City Chronicle, Judge James Lilly, who is, by the way, a relative of Judge H. C. Lilly, in the Jugge James Lany, who is, by ue way, a relative of Judge H. C. Lilly, in the last issue of his paper devotes a column of his valuable space to show that we are unfair in our diagnosis of his Republican relative's record, and we plead "not guilty." No newspaper in Kentucky has paid Judge H. C. Lilly more compliments than THE HERALD. We have never failed to compliment him when we felt that he deserved it, and when assailed by the press of the State a few years ago we defended him against all his defamers. We did so because the attack was unwarranted and because we liked to look at the good things he had done. We prefer now, for political purposes, to peint in unmistakable characters the good things he might have done had he not been handicapped by age. But we have endeavored to avoid personalities, and if perchance we have encroached on that perchance we have encroached on that preserve, we beg pardon. But all this aside, Redwine will be our next Circuit

WHEN such men as Gen. Wayne Mc-Veigh and Judge Walter Q Gresham desert the g. o. p. it is about time for the Republicans to throw up the sponge. Mr. Gresham's support of Cleveland will undoubtedly give Indiana to the Demo-crats, despite the fact that it is Harri-son's home State. son's home State.

expended for this purpose, and in Wayne it was but $12.86. It will be seen that all five are mountain counties, but the two latter are unfortunately not in the Old Judge's district. Who is responsible for this state of affairs? Evidently Judge filly has outlived his days of usefulness, and the Democratic party will see that after November 8th next he retires to private life "full of honors and old age."

The universal verdict of the people from all sections, who visited our fair, has been, "an immense success," but a close relation of Balaam's favorite steed, now engaged at West Liberty in editing the Messenger, asininely brays:

The Hasel Green fair was not what it was expected to be. The weather was fine, and fall the necessary arrangements had been grand success instead of a failure. That the "jack ring" did not fill was no fault of the association, but being tagged for free entry you should have one over, and had you displayed the same qualties as portrayed in the above you would have given way through Mongan would have given way through the mean of the latter shot him in the countesy, and afterward suicided in envy.

Staking of the Ada V.

Last Wednesday night the Ada V. sprung a leak, and gradually runk to the bottom of the river. She was tied to the bank with two large cables, and but for this fact would have carrened completely over. As it is, one gunwale is about two feet under the water, and the machinery flooded. No now seems to know two feet under the water, and the ma-chinery flooded. No one seems to know exactly how it happened. One of the colored deck hands was sleeping near the boiler, and awoke to find himself surrounded by water, and before any-thing could be done to stop the leak the boat had settled over on her side and sunk.

All day Wednesday men were at work endeavoring to get her up. First one plan was tried and then another, until some brilliant mind hit on a plan. The simplest thing in the word—just bail her out! A fire was built under the boilers, steam gotten up, and about twenty backets were borrowed from the fire company. At a given signal the pumps were started and everybody began to bail. About a million gallons of water were poured out when they discovered that it was impossible to bail a hole in the river and gave it up. Then another man had a sure thing, and like a drowning man catches at a straw, his plan of knocking off part of the false work on the dam, and letting the backwater flow over, was immediately adopted. The water gradually settled down—so did the boat—and tally settled down—so did the boat—and and retting the backwater how over, was immediately adopted. The water grad-ually settled down—so did the boat—and when night came she was no nearer afloat than at the time she sunk. The man that knew exactly how to get her up was, of course, there, and in eyery-body's way, and if all his suggestions had been followed, Mr. Thompson would have spent more than the boat cost, and likely as not she would now be complete likely as not she would now be complete-ly submerged. Mr. Thompson, however, expects to get her aftoat today by prying her up with levers. This appears to be the only way of raising her, and she will doubtless make her regular trip to Lum her Point tomorrow.—Beattyville En-

Still Our Purpose.

"Tariff reform is still our purpose," in the letter of Grover Cleveland to the people, expresses the whole aim and purpose of the Democratic party on the great issue between the protected few and the unprotected millions. No halting; no temporaling; no compromise measures—tariff reform is still our purpose until trade has been reliesed form. until trade has been released from until trade has been released from pro-tective shackles and its benefits distribu-ted among all our people, the manufac-turer shorn of his special privileges and taking with the rest of the people neither nor less.

With that purpose in view; and with the purpose to stand between centraliza-tion and the right of the people to con-trol and regulate elections of their public servants in the manner deemed right and fair and appropriate to them, the Demo-cratic party goes into the campaign armed and equipped for successful issue; and all other questions to be settled afterwards.

Beattyville and Winchester Railrond.

The Beattyville and Winchester railroad, connecting with the K. U., will be finished and trains running about the 10th of November. The connection from Beattyville to Winchester, and from the latter point to Versailles, will fill a long and much-needed want to those living along the line and in this section, and along the line and in this section, and even to many at a distance in every di-rection. Coal of different varieties, all of the very best, from many domestic mines in the State, will be furnished to consumers at low figures and in abun-dance. The seenery along the line is said to be the most beautiful on earth. A $30,000 hotel is being built at Beatty-ville. Mr. Robert Wallace, of this coun-ty, is president of the road, and to his ty, is president of the road, and to his energy and enterprise and to Woodfoad county capital (for this road is being built by Woodford county capital) all are indebted for this great boon, for a boon it will be to every one and to every section .- Clarion.

Eacouraged in His Race.

Hon. D. B. Redwine returned from Hazel Green fair last Saturday very much pleased with what he saw, and especially with what he heard while there. He reports the fair a great success, the exhibits being superior in quantity and quality. What he heard that was so gratifying was his political prospects. He says the Democratic ranks are solid as far as he could hear, and sympathizing friends of the opposite party assured him that they would render him valuable aid in the contest.—Jackson Hustler. him that they would render him value aid in the contest.—Jackson Hustler.
